Moving masterpieces

Strange things are happening in LEGO® City! What wild delivery is the driver bringing this time? Get ready to make your city come alive with awesome animations!

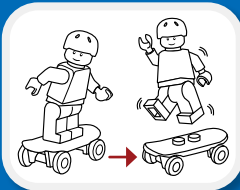

Make a flip-and-roll animation

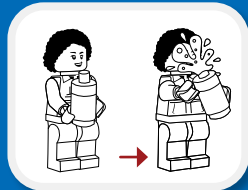

With just a piece of paper, a pencil and your imagination, you can create your very own moving scene. Cool, right? Follow these steps to get started:

1

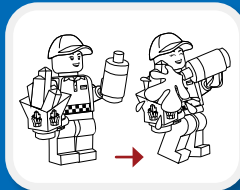

Think of your scene. It needs just two frames. Like these:

You as a minifigure doing an epic skateboard trick!

A LEGO® minifigure's soda exploding!

Fry Girl accidentally squirting WAY too much sauce.

2

Got your idea? Great! Now fold your paper the long way, like a hot dog bun. Then fold it over the short way!

3

Open the paper. In the bottom square, draw the first part of your scene. For example, a LEGO City minifigure holding a soda.

4

Fold the paper again. On the outside square, draw what happens next. For example, the soda exploding everywhere!

5

6

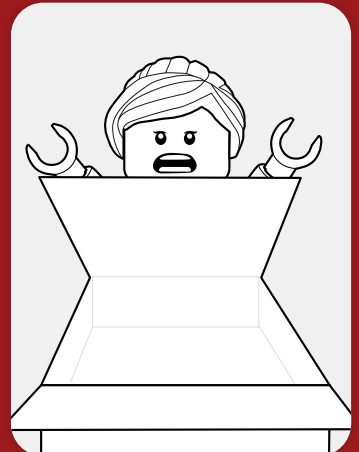

Roll the top drawing up around your pencil and flip it back and forth really fast. Whoa – your masterpiece is moving!

The box is alive!

A delivery driver hears a strange rumble coming from inside the box. But what could it be? A tiny mouse? A wiggly worm? A giant pizza?

Draw whatever you want to pop out of the box in the picture below.

Now, flip back and forth to Page 5 to watch your creation come to life.

Valentina's barnyard party

POP!

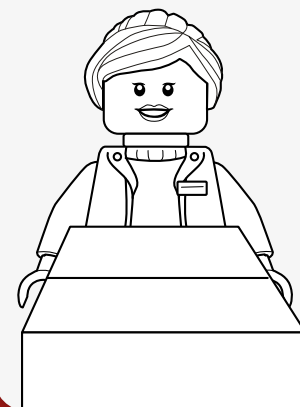

6

Quack!

Quack!

Quack!

I've got it!

Flip back and forth to

Throw a wickedly wonderful party!

Love the way you build

AARDMAN™

LEGO

Hi, I'm Magdalena Osinska, Animation Director at Aardman Animations. If you love animation, LEGO® bricks are the perfect way to start!

Building with LEGO® bricks opens up endless possibilities.

There are many movable parts I use – from minifigures to vehicles, dinosaurs, dragons and more. It's a future animator's dream! The best part is how quick it is – you have an idea, you grab the bricks, and off you go.

My top tip for creating LEGO stop-motion animations.

I think about the story first. A simple plan or sketch makes a big difference. Then I set up a scene, gather LEGO® bricks, choose the characters and have fun!
